

Indiana's telephone privacy law has made our time our own, rather than a solicitors. It has proved very effective against those who were the most annoying and least worthy, while allowing local charities and services the freedom to provide information. PLEASE do not alter this law with rulings or proposals which could lesson its effectiveness.